LIFE INSURANCE DIVIDENDS

The dividend year in the State Mutual Life of Massachusetts commences March 1st, and I am pleased to say that the dividends appropriated this year are the largest, and the increased dividend over the previous year show the largest gains of any in the 22 years I have represented the company. The cost of Life Insurance in a Participating Company all depends upon the dividends paid back to the Policy Holder, and if we pay one-half the amount that has been paid in the past 22 years our policies are cheaper than any non-participating or stock policies written by any Company represented in the State, besides being a much more liberal contract in every way.

Don't take my word for it but investigate.

MORGANS FOR GOVERNMENT.

Morgan Horse Club to Give Ten Animals for a Test.

The Morgan Horse club of which Henry S. Wardner of New York is president and C. C. Stillman secretary and treasurer, has drawn the attention of Secretary of War Dickinson to the merits of the Vermont-bred horses for cavalry mounts. This horse traces directly to the famous Justin Morgan and is of rugged constitution, but there is a difference of opinion in the club as to the proper height.

Wardner and Stillman favor a horse of 14.2 hands, while Elmer A. Darling and H. R. C. Watson, who are governors of the club prefer a horse 15 hands. It is largely a question of sentiment.

The four men named were among the dinner guests of Hamilton Busbey and his granddaughter, Miss Grisby, at No. 660 Park Avenue, recently and the decision was reached to buy and send ten Vermont-bred horses to the United States government posts to be tested for cavalry purposes.

Justin Morgan is the romantic horse of America, just as the Arab is the romantic horse of the Orient. Darling, who is president of the Jersey City Cattle club, has a grazing farm of 6,000 acres at East Burke, Vt.; Stillman has a breeding establishment at Lyndonville, and Watson's stud is at Brandon, Vt.

Maxwell Harris, who has a summer home at Windsor, Vt., is an enthusiastic member of the Morgan Horse club. Recently in Washington he eloquently told President Taft and members of the cabinet of the virile qualities of the descendants of Justin Morgan.

Keep Dogs Away From Deer Now. Every dog owner possessed of any humanitarian sentiments ought at this season of the year to keep his dog tied up, or otherwise cared for so as to prevent the dog chasing deer which are heavy with young and unable to escape. While the snow is deep and more or less crusted, deer are helpless when pursued by dogs. To illustrate how helpless they are it may be truthfully stated that a man on snowshoes can, by rapidly walking, easily tire out and capture a deer or kill it with a club, and in some sections this brutal method of obtaining venison is still in vogue. Other of the wild game of the state is at this time unable to protect itself from similar attacks for similar reasons.

CLEAN JOURNALISM

Address Delivered Monday Evening Before 97 New England Christian Science Gatherings.

Franklin Blake of Boston was the man selected by the management of The Christian Science Monitor to read the address on Clean Journalism at the Christian Science rooms in St. Johnsbury at eight o'clock Monday evening. The address was being read at the same hour at 97 different places in New England. The address was well prepared and very candid in its statements and was one of the most unique and successful pieces of advertising in modern journalism.

The speaker was introduced by Charles E. Peck and confined himself strictly to the prepared copy. Especially strong was the attitude taken that advertisers must be honest in what they say to the public if they would receive profitable results from their advertising.

The speaker called attention to the fact that present day journalism is ruled by mechanical genius rather than editorial ability. His definition of the duties of the publisher of a modern paper is that "he must ever remember the influence of the press upon the public mind and must exercise his function as preceptor to old and young alike, in discussing all issues affecting the people. He must always champion every interest looking toward the benefit and well being of the majority, socially, politically, economically, and as readily challenge the usurper, demagogue and promoter of political intrigue."

His conception of clean journalism was expressed as follows: "Clean journalism pre-eminently fills the growing desire for wholesome news. It tells of upbuilding and progress in all human endeavor. It voices sane optimism and champions the good and right in civic, community and worldwide interests and undertakings. It inculcates respect for law and order and allegiance to constituted authority. In short, it seeks only to build up, not to tear down, the social fabric, to promote every agency that makes for human enlightenment and betterment. As a result clean journalism is continually uncovering sources of news that have been overlooked or neglected."

At the close of the address Mr. Peck called on two local speakers who compared local conditions with those of a metropolitan paper and expressed their hearty endorsement of clean journalism. Mr. Blake then related briefly some of his personal experiences and the meeting was closed.

—The King's Heralds society of Grace Methodist church will meet Friday afternoon at three o'clock at the church parlors.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Flaming Arrow" at The Colonial Tomorrow Night.

The "Flaming Arrow" which appears at The Colonial tomorrow night is a gem of dramatic art in five acts. The play has a simple theme, yet vigorous in thought and has those touches of human nature that appeal to all classes. There is no mawkish sentiment in the lines or action. No strain for dramatic effects. A fine, delightful story, characters alive and real. The play is strong in interest, the thoughts purely American and captivate the applause of all audiences.

"The Man of the Hour," which comes to the Colonial April 7, is perhaps the best known play in America so far as public discussion goes. Quite apart from its local interest the play is full of breezy fun, and sparkling witticisms and it tells a delightfully human and natural love story. This will be the special company and will include Joseph Harris, Chas. H. Ellwood, Harry J. Oehler, L. C. Phillips, Charles Drake, Edward Riley, Fred Reynolds, Walter Carter, Richard Hogan, John P. Daly, M. J. Underwood, Frank Weston, Peter Digman, George Brantley, Edna Lyman and Marie Casmere.

Plans for Memorial Day. The annual sermon to the Grand Army will be preached this year by Rev. T. J. Leonard who has invited Chamberlin Post and the other patriotic societies to attend service at St. Aloysius church the Sunday before Memorial Day. The Memorial Day address will be delivered by Rev. George W. C. Hill.

BE WISE IN SEASON.

For it never will be cheaper,
And the price may go steeper,
You'd better buy—Your Coal.

For Springtime Fixing Up

Colonial Paint If you are thinking of brightening up your buildings this spring it's time to consider what you are going to do it with. You want a paint that is pure, that will look well when put on, and that will look just as well next year at this time. And you don't want that color uncertainty that you have when you use lead and oil. Furthermore, you want the paint with the greatest covering capacity. Good mixed paint covers more than lead and oil. In other words, you want Colonial Paint. You want it because it is 100 per cent. pure, because its colors are brilliant and permanent, and because we stand behind it, and will make it right with you if it isn't up to our claims. Write or call now for a Colonial color card.

Atlas Cement should be your cellar floor. Prospective tenants frequently ask, "Is your cellar cemented?" 30 per cent. of the air in the house is cellar air, damp if the cellar is damp, dry and pure if the cellar is dry. Cement cellars are not damp. Damp cellars also shorten the life of the building. They mean disintegration (in time) to the walls and rot to the woodwork. A few bags of Atlas Cement will overcome the nuisance. Uncle Sam has just ordered five million barrels of Atlas Cement for the Panama Canal. They've got the best engineers in the world there and they certainly know what they are doing. We are now sole agents in this town for Atlas Cement. We should like to have you call and talk cement with us.
